Edward de Bono proposes that a PMI (Plus, Minus, Interesting) can develop decision-making skills. A PMI checks that an activity is worth doing. Begin by drawing a table with three columns. Record the positive effects of the action in the ‘Plus’ column and the negative effects in the ‘Minus’ column. Other points go in the ‘Interesting’ column. Finally, award the points a positive or negative score and add them up. A higher positive total shows that the action ought to be taken and a higher negative total shows that it shouldn’t be taken. Below, is a PMI which an Egyptian family used to decide whether to go to Ireland for a holiday.
