Teacher’s Notes (1 of 2)

Life in the Desert

Subject links

Life in the Desert has two main curriculum links: Science: the natural world and Geography: locations. Literacy: metaphor.

Science:

Natural world:
- Habitats and biomes found on Earth and the life that is found there.
- Adaptations: How do animals and plants adapt to their habitats?

Geography:

- The locations of the various deserts. The spread of nomadic peoples – the Bedouin and the Mongols.

Literacy:

- The idea of metaphor.

The factual section

Contents page

Ask the pupils where they might look if they wanted to find out what is inside a book. Discuss the purpose of contents pages. Play a game where you call out a topic and the pupils have to turn to the correct page. For example, ask: On which page might I find something about gerbils?

Bilingual Dictionary

Examine the bilingual dictionary at the back of the book. Encourage the pupils to look up words and add the translation to the dictionary throughout their reading to help clarify any unknown words. Discuss the word classes of adjectives, verbs, adverbs and nouns. Discuss how they might go about finding definitions for the dictionary words.

Using the photographs

Prior to reading the book, have the pupils take time to look at the photographs in the factual section.

Do they recognize some of the animals or places? What do they already know about deserts? What questions do they have about the photographs? What do they find interesting? Record the pupils’ prior knowledge and questions for later use.

Using the facts

After an initial reading of the factual section, have pupils reread, looking for information to put under two main headings:

- Desert: words or phrases that describe a desert habitat (e.g. does not have many plants)
- Desert life: words or phrases that describe how plants and animals are suited for life in the desert (e.g. thick coat)

Use these word banks as a springboard into a discussion on habitats and how species are suited to their surroundings. What other examples of adaptations can the pupils think of?

Look at the section on people of the desert.

Ask: What are the difficulties of life in the desert? What would it be like to grow up in this environment? What are the things that would be important? How is it different to your life?

Use a map and the Internet to find out where the Bedouin or Mongols are located. Are they found in just one country?
Teacher’s Notes (2 of 2)

Using a map, pinpoint the areas of desert in the world. Can the pupils find the Sahara, the Atacama, the Gobi, Antarctica?

Project work
Refer to the word banks and previous discussion on species that have adapted to their habitats.

Using Worksheet 4, have the pupils follow their own lines of inquiry – researching another desert animal of their choice. Can they find out what makes that species suited to life in the desert? Have each student report back to the class.

Alternatively, have the pupils research a desert of their choice.

The story section
Title page
Look at the illustration on the title page. Have the pupils predict what the story might be about. Discuss the word stubborn. Find the word in the Bilingual Dictionary. Come up with a definition as a class.

Look at the title. As the story seems to be set in the desert, what could the word ship refer to? (It is mentioned in the factual section.) How can a ship be stubborn?

Discuss the idea of metaphor. (It is a comparison where one thing is said to be another, e.g. The moon’s a balloon. The road was a ribbon.)

If no ideas are forthcoming, have the pupils keep it in mind as they read and return to the discussion at the end.

After reading
When all the pupils have had a chance to read the story, discuss any words that still need clarifying. Are there any questions about the story?

Play script
Break the class into groups. Have them write a play script using the story. Suggest the parts of narrator, the merchant, the camel, Hassan and Aisha. Discuss how the pupils can use the story to write their lines.

Give the pupils time to rehearse their play and perform it for the class.

Using the Activities and Worksheets
Prior to beginning the Activities and Worksheets, read through each together, checking understanding of the task.

Encourage the pupils to reread the text when answering the questions. Remind them to use the contents page to help them find the information they need. Remind the pupils to use the Bilingual Dictionary to help clarify any unknown words.
